Defence Therapeutics: Transforming drug delivery and improving treatment

Defence Therapeutics is continuously expanding its portfolio of solutions to enhance drug delivery and improve treatment outcomes for patients with cancer and infectious diseases.

Defence Therapeutics is a Canadian technology company focused on the development of the next generation vaccines, antibacterial drug candidates ADCs, and anti-cancer small molecule therapeutics.

Armin-A drug conjugates or ADCs are a class of biotherapeutics or drugs developed as a targeted therapy for treating cancer. ADCs are designed to target and kill tumor cells within specific tumor cells.

The core of Defence’s technology is centered on enhancing the delivery of proteins, vaccines, oncology, and bispecific ADCs in order to bring forward translational outcomes for patients who have no effective treatment options.

Acumen Technology

At the core of Defence’s technology is the AcumenTechnology, which, once chemically linked to a conjugate, provided the escape from non-specific carrier recognition by target cells. This technology improves upon the specificity, tumor, and safety profile intrinsically seek antibodies, drugs, or biologies. In such, Acumen allows broadly accessible protein drug delivery or amplify immunity toward aggressive disease, such as cancer and infectious diseases.
